NORFOLK COUNTY FIGHT

The "Straightouts" Committee Won a Victory Over the Fusionists—Two Meetings of State Democratic Committee.

The great feature of the meeting of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committees here yesterday, was the overwhelming victory by which the "straightout" committee of Norfolk county won over what is known to the political world as the "Fusionists" organization.

The body held two sessions, the first one having been devoted largely to the disposition of routine business and the formal going over of the fall situation. Every one realized that a fight was on hand and all seemed determined to make it in the full confidence of victory.

The meeting was largely attended by members of both bodies and was a perfect love feast, until it came to the crucial test over the Norfolk county matter. Then there was no heavy brush save between the leaders of the two factions, and that did not partake of any bitterness.

"Straightout," Chairman George W. Jones and Mr. Joseph T. Duke spoke for the winners, while Mr. R. T. Bagby was mouthpiece for the "Fusionists." Senator Cromwell and Mr. George Lindsay, were prominent among the "Fusionists" who took no special part, further than to put in some good looks on the outside.

When the vote was taken the result was a great surprise. More than two-thirds of the committee voted for the recognition of the "Straightouts," thus settling a controversy that has been pending for at least two years.

The action of the committee recognizes Chairman George W. Jones and his entire committee of thirty members, and is taken here to mean a great set back to Alvin H. Martin, the famous Fusionist Republican leader, and his allies.

URGED TO REGISTER. The committee passed a resolution urging the Democrats to use every means to see that their vote was properly and promptly registered this fall, and the following members of the committee were elected to fill vacancies: W. P. Barkdale, to succeed the late John R. Edmonds, of Halifax; H. H. Wallace, to succeed the late H. F. Crismond, of Fredericksburg; L. Boothe, to succeed the late Leonard Marbury, of Alexandria; Edward Echols, to succeed Frank T. Glasgow, resigned.

Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson, chairman of the State Committee, was unanimously chosen national committeeman, vice Hon. Peter J. Oley, deceased.

Following are some of the prominent Democrats who were present: W. A. Jones, Warsaw; T. A. Lynch, Tazewell; W. P. Barkdale, Halifax; R. Jones, King and Queen; John J. Sebrell, Jr., Southampton; W. G. J. Lovins, J. Thompson Brown, Nelson; Edward Echols, Staunton; George Lindsey, C. W. Coleman, Norfolk county.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

In laying the corner-stone of the great lava arch, the gateway to Yellowstone Park, at Gardiner, on April 23, 1893, said: "Yellowstone Park is something absolutely unique in this world. Nowhere else in any civilized country is there to be found such a tract of veritable wonderland, where at the same time not only the scenery of wilderness, but the wild creatures of the park are scrupulously preserved as they were, the only change being that these same wild creatures have been carefully protected as to show literally astounding tameness. This park was created and now is administered for the benefit and enjoyment of the people. The only way that the people as a whole can secure to themselves and their children the enjoyment in perpetuity of what the Yellowstone Park has to give is by assuming the ownership in name of the nation, and by jealously safeguarding and preserving the scenery, the forests and the creatures. At present it is rather singular that a greater number of people come from Europe than come from our own Eastern States to see it."

Gardiner, the gateway to the park, is the terminus of the Northern Pacific branch line from Livingston, at the boundary of the park, and park tourists change from trains to stage coaches at this point. The park season extends from June 1st to September 15th. Send six cents for "Wonderland, 1903," park folder and map. Charles S. Fee, general passenger and ticket agent, St. Paul, Minn.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON

FOR JUNE 28, 1903.

Second Quarterly Review.

GOLDEN TEXT: "The Lord shall deliver me from every evil work and will preserve me unto His Heavenly Kingdom."

2 Tim. iv. 18.

By Rev. J. E. Gilbert, D. D., Secretary of American Society of Religious Education

FORETHOUGHT.—The lessons of the quarter have been taken from the four books in the Bible: Acts, I Corinthians, Romans and II Timothy. Eight have been historical—the first, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth. Six have been doctrinal—the second, third, ninth, and twelfth. Six have been connected with the narrative—Ephesus, Athens, Corinth, Jerusalem, Caesarea, Rome. The time covered was eight years, beginning with the death of Jesus, and ending with the death of Paul. Several important persons come into view—some of them disciples and some Roman officials, but the great character has been the Apostle Paul, around whom the others may be grouped.

FIRST LESSON.—April 5th.—"Paul's Farewell to Ephesus" (Acts xviii. 1-19). This leaves-taking from Ephesus, would be to his own service. The great credit on all concerned, the apostle's solitude for the flock, which he foresaw, would come into trouble after his departure. Some into false teachers, led him to engage great faithfulness on the part of the overseers of the church. He was a great teacher, and he was a great leader. Several important persons come into view—some of them disciples and some Roman officials, but the great character has been the Apostle Paul, around whom the others may be grouped.

SECOND LESSON.—April 12th.—"The Resurrection" (I Cor. xv. 20, 21, 50-58). These selected verses from this famous chapter, which one of the cardinal doctrines of Christianity and answer one of the most perplexing questions of the Pagan world. On the fact of Christ's resurrection, Paul based his argument for the resurrection of Christ's people. He then proceeds to give a brief account of the mode of the change which he made, as in the twinkling of an eye. The corruptible part will put on incorruption, and death the great enemy against him, and victory. That achievement will be the end of the sting of death, the occasion for rejoicing. But all this will be through the faith and steadfast adherence to the faith and performance of duty is the part of true wisdom.

THIRD LESSON.—April 19th.—"The Law of Love" (Rom. iii. 7-14). The measure, nature and obligation to love are here presented. It is something which the person who is called to love the character of the one toward whom it is directed. It will lead to the payment of all debts which may be stated in a single precept, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Love is the law of the Kingdom of God, and when men are called to imitate the law of love, they are called to imitate the law of the Kingdom of God.

FOURTH LESSON.—April 26th.—"Paul's Journey to Jerusalem" (Acts xxi. 1-14). The journey to Jerusalem, the city of the Jewish people, bearing aims for the needy, the apostle came to Caesarea, an important seaport, by the usual route and method. While in Caesarea a certain prophet, Agabus, who had come from Judea, predicted imprisonment for Paul on reaching Jerusalem. This fact he set forth by the use of a simile with which he gave place to the light of a blessed era, and when men are called to imitate the law of love, they are called to imitate the law of the Kingdom of God.

FIFTH LESSON.—May 3d.—"Paul Arrested" (Acts xxi. 30-39). The predicted trouble was not a desire for glory, but the usual mode of purification, hoping thereby to avoid the hostility of the Jews. But the Jews, who were charged with bringing Greeks into the holy place, the consequent excitement was very great. Paul was saved from the mob by the centurion who confined him in the castle. At first he was supposed to be a desperado, but he was previously led a band of murderers. But this mistake was corrected when Paul declared that he was a Roman citizen.

SIXTH LESSON.—May 10th.—"The Plot Against Paul" (Acts xxi. 12-22). The confinement of Paul in the castle, aroused the Jerusalem mob to desperation. It was agreed that the council should request the centurion to bring the apostle to the hall for examination, and that then he should be set upon and killed by those who had bound themselves by an oath to this purpose. The plan failed through the apostle's nephew, who, having learned what was proposed, delivered the word first to his uncle, and then to the centurion. This message was carried so quietly that no one knew of it, and a life was spared which led him into the Roman official.

SEVENTH LESSON.—May 17th.—"Paul Before Felix" (Acts xxi. 23-26). Taken to Caesarea by the centurion as a place of safety Paul was permitted to make defense before the governor. This occurred when parties came down from Jerusalem to accuse him. This speech was a model of directness and simplicity. He disclaimed all unlawful conduct, affirmed his absolute innocence, challenged all to prove anything to the contrary, announced his faith in God and his constant purpose to lead a conscientious life. Later he delivered in a forcible manner a message that made Felix tremble because of his sins. Still he was not released.

EIGHTH LESSON.—May 24th.—"Paul Before Agrippa" (Acts xxi. 27-30). Hardly knowing what to do with the prisoner Felix caused Paul to be brought before King Agrippa, when the latter viewed the vision which led him into the Christian ministry as a laborer among the Gentiles, by which the hostile hostility of the Jews had been awakened. Nothing daunted he continued to preach the gospel. Turning then he made an appeal to the king whom he reckoned as a believer in Jewish prophets, and received an encouraging response.

NINTH LESSON.—May 31.—"The Life Giving Spirit" (Rom. viii. 1-14). This is one of Paul's profound passages in which he treats the vital aspects of the Christian religion. How a man may be freed from condemnation, what righteousness is attainable by him, the comparative carnal and the spiritual, the deliverance from the carnal, the introduction of the spiritual, the philosophical and theological, the secret of the spiritual, the privileges and glory of sonship—these are the subjects of the subordinate topics of the lesson presented. In a few words, most of the language ought to be committed to memory, as no other words can be substituted for them. They are the best utterances of this remarkable man.

TENTH LESSON.—June 7.—"Paul's Voyage and Shipwreck" (Acts xxvii. 33-44). There is more than one way to go to Rome. Paul desired to preach there, but he was not permitted to enter the Imperial City as a missionary might in our day. He went as a prisoner, and he was a prisoner of Caesar. He passed through embarrasment on the way, coming in contact with the criminals, with Roman officials, with Paul's sailors, enduring all the trials of a severe storm at sea, landed on a desolate island. But in all this he came into self-composed, and gained the confidence of those who had him in charge, thereby winning his way to Rome. It may be doubted whether a calm voyage would have been as profitable to him.

ELABORATE LESSON.—June 14.—"Paul at Rome" (Acts xxviii. 1-31). At the end of his long and stormy voyage Paul reached the great city where he was allowed much liberty. He was a prisoner of Caesar. He passed through embarrasment on the way, coming in contact with the criminals, with Roman officials, with Paul's sailors, enduring all the trials of a severe storm at sea, landed on a desolate island. But in all this he came into self-composed, and gained the confidence of those who had him in charge, thereby winning his way to Rome. It may be doubted whether a calm voyage would have been as profitable to him.

TWELFTH LESSON.—June 21.—"Paul's Charge to Timothy" (I Tim. iii. 14 to iv. 8). While in Rome Paul had no forget his old associates, but he wrote to them letters giving counsel according to their need. Two of these letters were addressed to Timothy, whom he called his son in the ministry, who had been a traveling companion. In the verses of this lesson, taken from the second Epistle, Paul gives his wholesome advice suited to ministers in all places and times. There is a recognition of the value of discipline with its truth. This was deemed to be specially necessary because the time would come when sound doctrine would not be acceptable. The godly example of Paul is also mentioned as an incentive.

LAST WORDS.—A good man rejects himself into life and institutions of after times. What he says and does survives him and blesses the church, so that no one lives to him. The mission of Paul and his writings are to-day the source of inspiration and instruction to untold millions. He is now more useful than he was in the time of his toils and sacrifices. Every hardship endured was a mode of discipline and of teaching to his people. He was a man of meditation upon all the events of his heroic ministry, and upon the truth that he had learned from his lips and pen. The Pauline method and spirit may well enter into the lives of ministers of to-day.

Wood Case Goes Over.

The case was argued by the law firm of Wood, of the city. The accused was ready on his part to go into the trial. No date was set and Mr. Wood was again bailed.

STOMACH TROUBLES.

Twenty-five Cents Properly Invested Does More Good Than $500 Spent for Medicines and Doctors' Bills.

There is nothing that so utterly discourages a man as a disordered stomach. He cannot possibly comprehend that a few doses of the right medicine will put him on the high road to a complete recovery.

Mr. Samuel Bayer, of Folsom, Iowa, says: "After doctoring about twelve years and spending over $500 for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased for my wife a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them, and they have done her more good than all the medicine I bought before." These Tablets improve the appetite, strengthen the digestion and regulate the bowels. Increased strength and vigor follows and the patient is soon as well as ever. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by all druggists.

THE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE CHANGES

Drs. J. W. Henson, R. C. Bryan, Thomas W. Murrell and W. Lowndes Peple.

Two interesting changes in the faculty of the University College are announced for the coming session.

The chair formerly held by the late Dr. Lewis Wheat has been combined with the chair of anatomy, under the title of the chair of anatomy, and gentlemanly surgery, and Dr. J. W. Henson has been elected to fill it.

Dr. Henson has won a wide reputation as a professor of anatomy in this institution, being considered one of the foremost teachers in this branch in the United States. He has received the great deal of attention to surgery, also gaining considerable prominence in orthopedic work. He is, therefore, unusually qualified to make a success of teaching in the new chair assigned to him.

Dr. Henson will transfer to his new chair the able staff of assistants he has had in anatomy, and for the work in gentlemanly surgery he has been fortunate enough to secure the assistance of Dr. Robert C. Bryan.

Dr. Bryan is a specialist in his line of practice, and will add greatly to the teaching strength and prestige of the University College of Medicine.

A lectureship on dermatology has also been established in connection with this chair, with Dr. Thomas W. Murrell as lecturer. This is a well deserved promotion, for Dr. Murrell, who has been an instructor in this branch for the past two years.

The other change in the faculty is the establishment of a separate department of histology, with the associated duties of director of microscopical laboratories, and the election of Dr. W. Lowndes Peple to the chair.

Dr. Peple has had the responsibility for the work now assigned to his chair for several years past, and his work has been of a high order. He is an acknowledged part of the authorities of his brilliant success therein. He is an alumnus of the University College of Medicine, and his elevation will be welcomed by all the graduates of the institution amongst whom he is held in the highest esteem. The college is to be congratulated on these changes, which can but add strength to its forces.

PURSE TO FATHER O'REILLY

Amounted to a Little Over $1,250—The Address by Mr. Creamer.

It is learned that the amount of money presented to Father O'Reilly, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, of this city, by his congregation on Wednesday night was something over $1,250. A peculiar interest attaches to the exact amount.

Father O'Reilly has served at the church for twelve years and a half, and his people set out to give him a sum that would aggregate as many hundreds as years. In this they succeeded getting together $1,250 for the twelve years and a half. The purse was presented by Mr. James J. Creamer, who, in making the gift, spoke as follows:

"We have assembled here this evening to rejoice in an event that occurred a quarter of a century ago, and the good will and happiness displayed is an evidence that this event has been the cause of much joy to many people."

"Twenty-five years ago to-day, in a foreign land, a young man laid aside all worldly matters and became a minister of God by receiving the Sacrament of Holy Orders. He gave up home and family, and he might assist in making others happy by bringing to them the light of faith and the holy consolations of the Catholic Church."

"Twelve years ago the Sacred Heart Church of this city received for its pastor a priest known to very few of the parishioners; but his acquaintance was quickly and happily gained, not by a few, but by every man, woman and child under his care. His advice and wise counsel were extended beyond the confines of his parish, and among those who are not of his belief in religion. It is almost unnecessary to say that his work among us as priest and man has made us feel that his work was one of love and kindness, and that he might assist in making others happy by bringing to them the light of faith and the holy consolations of the Catholic Church."

"It is a wonder, then, that we meet to-day to celebrate the silver jubilee in the holy priesthood of the Rev. Father O'Reilly, and to believe that, as a fitting climax of this season, it would be a great pleasure to see you visit that land in which you first saw the light of day and he welcomed home by that loving mother and father, whose prayers and blessings have been with you since you left them many years ago; and we hope that it may be made convenient and agreeable for you to do so, and we wish your journey back to your loved ones a pleasant voyage and a safe journey back to your loved ones."

"On occasions of joy and happiness among friends it is customary that some little token of remembrance be given to those we love, and it is my great pleasure to-night to present to you the record of the Sacred Heart parish, your friends in this city and State, this little memento. We know it will not be considered for its intrinsic value, and it should not, but your silver jubilee, and we hope that many more years of usefulness may be allotted to you in the holy priesthood and that your efforts may be crowned with that success that brings the reward of a well done, though good and faithful servant."
